Nodiak Stars With Murphy At Lisner

MAJOR GENERAL Anthony C. McAuliffe, George Murphy, and John Nodiak will take part in the weekly "Time for Defense" radio program tonight at 8:30 in the Lisner Auditorium. Free tickets may be obtained from the Lisner Box Office.

General McAuliffe, the hero of Bastogne, will present Dore Schary, producer of the film "Battleground," with an official Department of the Army certificate of appreciation.

General McAuliffe was the wartime commander of the 101st Airborne Division, which was surrounded at Bastogne. When asked by the Germans to surrender, he replied with the classic, "Nuts!"

"Battleground" Scene Scheduled
Lenny Grant, chairman of the Colonial Program Series, of which the program is a part, states that George Murphy and John Nodiak will probably present a scene from the motion picture, "Battleground" is a MGM semi-documentary film, which will have its world premiere at the Capitol Theater tomorrow night.

The American Broadcasting Company will present this third program of thirteen-week series over the air at 10 p.m.

Lieutenant Colonel George S. Howard will direct the Air Force Symphony Orchestra in the "Forces of Destiny" overture by Verdi, the "Irish Symphony" by Harty, and Tchaikovsky's "Pilgrim's Song," which has a baritone vocal by Master Sergeant Glenn Darwin.

Singing Stars Featured
Warrant Officer Robert Landers, who shares honors with Colonel Howard, will direct the "Singing Sergeants" in "Ezekiel Saw the Wheel," "Hosanna, Hosanna," and "Emmette Spiritum Tuum." He will also conduct the orchestra in "Ode to Friendship" by Harris and Lisner's "Les Preludes."

Variety of Subjects Interests Philosophy Professor Gauss

By GEORG TENNYSON

"YOU BECOME a philosopher by asking a lot of wrong questions." This remark came from one who ought to know, Dr. Charles E. Gauss, the University's Elton Professor of Philosophy.

After having spent the greater part of his life asking questions (some of which, he confesses, are still unanswered) Dr. Gauss has undertaken to answer some of the questions others might have regarding French art. His work may be examined by everyone interested with the reading of his recently published book, "The Aesthetic Theories of French Artists" (Johns Hopkins Press, $3).

Liberal Use of Quotes

In this volume the author has approached the subject by letting the artists speak for themselves with the liberal use of quotations. The schools of Realism, Impressionism, Cubism, Surrealism and others from 1855 to the present receive extended treatment, as do their foremost exponents.

Dr. Gauss himself is well schooled in artistic theory, having come to philosophy through an interest in the arts, principally music. He declares, "One does not come to philosophy directly, but rather through a previous interest. In my case it was art."

Relationship Shown

In "The Aesthetic Theories of French Artists" he has attempted to show the relationship between art, aesthetics and philosophy. He feels that they are inextricably interrelated and that one does not stand without the others. His definition of philosophy as "the analysis and criticism of ideas" is in keeping with this contention. He believes, therefore, that to present the theories of the French artists add to the general understanding and appreciation of their work.

Elections Tomorrow As 40 Vie For Offices

FORTY CANDIDATES for class offices will make three-minute speeches at an elections forum to be held tonight at 8:50 p.m. in Government 102.

Election of officers will take place tomorrow and Thursday, November 9 and 10. Ballot boxes will be set up on Lisner Terrace, on the second floor of the Student Union, and between Lisner Auditorium and Building M.

Polls will be open Wednesday and Thursday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., and from 4:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. In case of rain, ballot boxes will be moved into Columbian House.

Separate ballots will be available for each class. Any student having completed less than 30 credit hours must vote as a freshman. Sophomore voters must have completed between 30 and 59 credit hours, juniors between 60 and 89 credit hours. Any student having completed 90 hours or more must vote as a senior.

Activity Books Required

Each voter must present his activity book at the polls. He then signs a class sheet with his full name. The name must check with the name in the activity book. Both the activity book and the ballot are to be stamped. The class sheet will also be checked in the Registrar's office as to the number of credit hours. Only stamped ballots will be counted.

All campaigning other than printed literature must be approved by the elections committee. There will be no use of the public address systems for campaign purposes. There will be no campaigning in polling places, the Student Union, (See ELECTIONS, Page 12)

University To Confer 900 Degrees

THE UNIVERSITY will confer approximately 900 degrees during the fall convocation of the 129th year Friday at 8 p.m. in Constitution Hall.

Dr. Cloyd H. Marvin, president of the University, will deliver the traditional charge to the graduates and Dean Elmer L. Kayser, University Marshal, will announce the convocation.

The invocation and the benediction will be given by Dr. Fred Sherman Buschmeyer, minister of the Westmoreland (formerly Mt. Pleasant) Congregational Church, and who is now assistant minister of the National Council of Congregational-Christian Churches, New York. Dr. Buschmeyer's son Fred will receive a bachelor of arts degree from Columbian College.

Coberly Gets PhD

Among those receiving degrees will be James Harold Coberly, assistant professor of American literature, who will be awarded the doctor of philosophy degree. A member of the University's staff since 1938, he has both the bachelor of arts and the master of arts degrees from this institution. His thesis was on "The Growth of Nationalism in American Literature."

William Samuel Rumbough, who enrolled at the University when he retired as a major general from the U. S. Army in 1945, will be awarded the degree of doctor of education. He received the bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering from this school in 1927 and the master of arts degree here in 1946. He has been a teacher of mathematics and physics at the Falls Church, Virginia High School since 1946. "Management of the High School Principal's Office" is the title of his thesis.

Frances Holliday, associate professor of education, University of Omaha, Nebraska, will also receive a doctor of education degree. She has the bachelor of science in education. (See CONVOCATION, Page 5)

CBS Televises UN; On Union TV Set

DAILY TELEVISION broadcasts from the United Nations General Assembly were inaugurated yesterday over the Columbia Broadcasting System. University students are now able to see the UN in action via the Student Union's television set on the fourth floor.

Locally, the Monday through Friday programs are being telecast from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. over station WOIC, channel nine.

Sponsored by the Ford Motor Company, the programs are to continue until the end of the General Assembly about December 10. The broadcasts will originate from Flushing Meadows and Lake Success.

Senator's Sister Speaks

MISS ELEANOR Lansing Dulles, sister of John Foster Dulles, Republican senator from New York, will speak on "Economic Problems and Political Ramifications in Post-War Germany and Austria," tomorrow evening, 8:15 at Lisner Auditorium.

Miss Dulles, the author of many books and articles on European affairs, is a State Department adviser on German and European affairs. She will speak here in a regular Colonial series program, under the sponsorship of Delta Phi Epsilon, foreign service fraternity and the Student Council.

UNESCO Film on USSR

A special film entitled "One Day in Soviet Russia" also will be part of the program. The film, which shows the people's life in USSR during the course of one day, is sponsored by UNESCO in New York City.

Open House will be held after the program at the Delta Phi Epsilon House, 820 22nd Street, N. W. Hostesses will be members of Phi Pi Epsilon, foreign service sorority.

Miss Dulles received a M. A. degree from Bryn Mawr in 1926. She attended the London School of Economics for a year and the University of Paris on a scholarship.

In 1926 the famous economist began her teaching career in the Bureau of International Research at Harvard and Radcliffe. Since then she has held positions as assistant professor of economics at Bryn Mawr College, research associate of the industrial research department of the University of Pennsylvania, director of Bryn Mawr Summer School for Women Workers in Industry, and lecturer in the Women's College, University of Pennsylvania.

In Public Service

She has been a board member of the Bureau of Research of the Social Security, instructor of the Pacific Relations Club of New York, and member of the American Economic Association and the Foreign Policy Association.

Miss Dulles is the author of "The French Franc," "The Bank for International Settlements at Work," "The Evolution of Reparation Ideas," "The Dollar, The Franc, and Inflation," "Depression & Reconstruction," and "Financing the Social Security Act."

Leggette Plans Three Dramas For Players

L. POE LEGGETTE, executive officer of the University's Speech Department, has announced three productions to be presented by the University Players during the coming year at Lisner Auditorium.

The season will open with "The Yellow Jacket," a Chinese drama by George C. Hazelton and J. Harry Benrimo, to be presented December 15, 16, and 17. The production will be directed by William Vorenburg of the University's Speech Department staff.

The second play planned for the year is "Noah," a modern version of the Biblical flood story by Andre Obey, which will be directed by Edward Mangum, and presented in March as a special feature of "Religion in Life Week."

As its final production, the University Players will present "The Warrior's Husband," by Julian Thompson, a farce concerning a war between Greeks and Amazons, directed by Andrew Niles of the Speech Department.

ELEANOR LANSING DULLES

Mischa Elman Made Member Of Phi Alpha

MISCHA ELMAN, internationally renowned violinist, was honored at a banquet held for him at the Shoreham Hotel Saturday night by Phi Alpha Fraternity. Mr. Elman was initiated into the fraternity as an honorary member shortly before the banquet began.

Mr. Elman's son Josef, a University student and an active member of the fraternity, helped initiate his father.

In accepting the honorary membership, Mr. Elman declared that one of the things that bothered him was the injustice done to the present members of Phi Alpha who had to "grind away in college" in order to become members, while he was getting in the easy way.

Practice A "Grind"

Mr. Roy M. North, postmaster for the District of Columbia and a close friend of the Elman family, later pointed out that any man who has spent no less than four hours a day every day of his life practicing violin need not feel that he has gotten away with anything.

Mr. Elman concluded his remarks by telling the audience of 120 Phi Alphas and guests that he was now placed in a quandary, not knowing whether to treat his son as a father or a brother.

"If" went on Mr. Elman, "I treat him as a brother, I am no longer financially responsible for him." Turning to his son, he said, "From now on, Josef, you are my brother."

Plays in Appreciation

Dean Elmer Louis Kayser of the Division of University Students, a very close associate of Phi Alpha's and its "honorary founder," also spoke at the banquet, congratulating Mr. Elman on his honor and extending the greetings and felicitations of the University.

After the banquet Mr. Elman played a few selections on his Stradivarius to show his appreciation to the fraternity. He played (See ELMAN, Page 4)

Rally Thursday

COLONIAL BOOSTERS are presenting a pep rally this Thursday at 12:30 p.m. on Lisner Terrace. The band, cheerleaders, George, and Martha will all be on hand to help cheer the team on to victory over Duke this Saturday. In case of rain, the rally will be moved to the auditorium.

What A Mess!

• SEEMS THAT THERE ARE quite a few people around campus wondering what has happened to the "DZ Story." Everyone has heard a vivid assortment of rumors, yet apparently no one knows much for certain. Not even the police.

This much is definite—the investigation is being continued. However, the story behind the scene is a masterful tribute to confusion and uncertainty.

A brief review of the whole affair runs something like this: 'way back on October 2 the Delta Zeta rooms were vandalized to the extent of approximately $1,000 damage. Campus fraternities and sororities made up over $300 of this through a benefit dance the following Sunday evening.

Third Precinct police advanced the theory of revenge as a motive. They thought the vandal might have been a girl. Several suspects, both male and female, have since apparently been cleared.

Coming on top of this, to add to DZ's troubles, the Panhellenic Council voted to penalize DZ for violations of rush rules during the summer. No formal protest was registered by Delta Zeta; however Grace Bunker, DZ president presented a statement of the sorority's side of the case to the Student Life Committee at its last meeting.

In this statement, Miss Bunker pointed out that Delta Zeta had had no time to present a defense to the accusation of Panhel, since she had not been informed in time to prepare one. In addition, the Penalties Committee of Panhel had taken action one week sooner than had been arranged with DZ.

On the other hand, further complicating the situation, Barbara Stone, Panhel president and chairman of the Penalties Committee, interpreted the matter differently, saying in effect that DZ could have had more time if it had been requested.

Student Life felt it could take no action on the matter since it had not received a formal protest, and what it had received was presented too late. Yet several members of this committee expressed unofficial sympathy with Delta Zeta, and concern over Panhel's action.

Last week, Chi Omega sorority found a funeral wreath placed at its door, and its brass name-plaque torn from the wall. Yet as late as Sunday, the Third Precinct had scant knowledge of this incident as it had not even been entered on the police blotter. They report that the investigation is continuing, but with no particular theory as a basis.

Delta Zeta, Chi Omega, Panhel, Student Life, the University in general, and the police have all been involved in one of the most mis-handled mix-ups we've ever seen.

If, even at this late date, a solution had been reached to the various problems connected with the whole affair, we could breathe a deep sigh of relief. But unfortunately, nothing has been solved. It was, has been, and still is a pretty sorry mess.

Dammit, Kostik! Must you question everything I do or say?

One More Chance

• WE COULD WRITE a page-long editorial telling, begging, commanding the students to go to the polls and vote for their class officers tomorrow and Thursday.

We could show what wonderful classes we might have if students would only show some class spirit.

We could exhort the privileges of the ballot, the sacred right to vote, the future of democracy.

We could, but we won't.

Every fall an average of 1200 students (one tenth of the total student body) elects 16 class officers—class officers who, although filled with "real spirit" before and during elections, fail to accomplish anything of importance, chiefly because they don't have an organized class behind them. If we can judge by the past, students at the University just aren't interested in organizing classes. Many students—night and day students alike—don't even know to which class they belong.

So, we suggest that this year be the final test year. The newly-elected officers should make every attempt to organize their classes for the purpose of getting something worthwhile done. If they succeed, wonderful! If they fail, everyone should be wise enough to recognize the failure, and instead of kidding themselves anymore, drop this class elections business altogether.

Thanx, Max

• THOSE FOUR THOUSAND free tickets to the Maryland game were arranged for by C. Max Farrington, director of men's activities and athletics.

The U of M had planned to provide GW students with tickets at the reduced rate of two dollars, but Mr. Farrington persuaded their officials that it would be even nicer to let our students in free rather than see all those seats go empty.

We think it was a nice idea too, Mr. Farrington, and we know that the 3500 students who took advantage of your foresight join us in saying "Thanks."

Letters To The Editors

Smoking Lamp Out

Dear Editors:

Please ask the students here at the University for a little consideration for their neighbors in classrooms. By this I mean that they should try to observe the "No Smoking" signs.

Trying to listen to the lecturer while you are slowly suffocating in noxious fumes is no fun, as you no doubt realize.

Any suggestions to the proper authorities regarding this evil would be appreciated by the majority of students, according to my way of thinking.

Let There Be Light

Dear Editors:

I'm a member of several campus organizations which hold their meetings in the evening. As a result, I have noticed that in walking up to the Pennsylvania Avenue streetcar stop, I have been impressed with the fact that the way is very poorly lighted. Because of this and the recent vandalism I feel apprehensive about staying down at school late at night. Perhaps a partial solution might be to have the doorways of all University buildings illuminated.

Sincerely,
Carol Rice

'Foggy Bottom'

Dear Editors:

Your Hatchet this year is a fine paper, and I enjoy it very much. But the column, "Foggy Bottom," which occupies such a large amount of space every single week in the Hatchet, is a poorly-written, disagreeable bit of "kid stuff." It has no place in a college paper. It is a holdover from high school gossip columns.

I think it is the duty of the Hatchet to present its social news in a more refined, and generally acceptable manner. I suggest that, in place of "Foggy Bottom," a simple, well-written society column be instituted.

PROFS: TO WIN FRIENDS IS SIMPLE

In an endeavor to improve relations between student body and faculty I quote the University of Washington Daily, which gives a few helpful hints to professors who want to be popular with their students. These are eight short-cuts to academic fame.

1. Speak in a well modulated voice in order to keep from awakening students who may wish to sleep.

2. Make your lectures interesting for those students who are not sleepy. (This may be accomplished in interspersing lecture material with witty sayings, funny jokes, and sleight-of-hand.)

3. At the beginning of class pass out cigarettes together with matchbooks upon which are printed the pertinent points of the day's lecture.

4. Imply to the students that the textbook is entirely worthless and no test questions will be based on it. Never assign outside reading.

5. Never grade papers. Tell the class the papers were lost in a small fire and you are therefore forced to give everyone the grade of "B."

6. Dismiss classes on Fridays and do not appear several times a week. (Students will be grateful for this extra time in which to study.)

7. Be careful to leave a copy of the final exam lying on your desk. (In the event that it is unnoticed slip copies of it into students' notebooks.)

8. The night before the final, invite the entire class to your home for a cocktail party.

STOP AND THINK—THIS HAPPENED HERE

Appropos of the theft of three Philco radios from the second floor lounge of the Student Union building, the following item is quoted from the University of Georgia newspaper:

The individual—presumably a student—who removed a radio from the lobby of Student Hall last Friday should be pleased with the darning of his practical joke—or the vulgarity of his theft.

A table model of popular make, the radio has been a much listened-to item and source of enjoyment by students in the Student building.

The act of removal, whatever the intent, represents a shoddiness of conduct which is all the more reprehensible in a college level society.

To refuse to return the radio, in view of the rather drastic effect its disappearance can have on the life of other students, should cause twinges of conscience beyond the endurance of even the most ruthless thief.

STUDENT POLITICS

Campus organizations made the following claims for money from the College Body Senate at Wesleyan:

The Shake Club—This group has 600 members who meet every afternoon in the Club Downey to discuss the affairs of the day over a milk-shake. At twenty cents a shake the Club feels justified in asking for $2,000 which should see them through this Friday.

The Claxton M. Prunz Award—This award is given every year to that Freshman who has visited the Dean the most times. The Award Committee requests $10 from the Student Senate for the lucky winner's train fare home.

The Non-Shower After Gym Class Club—This group is open to all students who show extraordinary ability in keeping away from water. They request $40 for talcum.

The Chalk Club—A group which travels from class to class for the purpose of stealing all available chalk and then noting the reactions of professors. Request: $20 for transportation.

Friends Of The Debating Team—This body follows the debating team for the purpose of giving nasty looks to the judges. They would like $7.95 for noisemakers and funny hats.

These requests for money, according to the Wesleyan paper, are up for consideration by the Student Senate. It is expected they will pass and receive the Student Comptroller's prompt endorsement.

Since this is the beginning of the year, it seems to be a good time to make a constructive change.

Respectfully,

K. L.

[Ed. Note: Thanks for your suggestion; we've considered this problem for some time. Our "Foggy Bottom" reporters tell us that there wasn't enough news for a column this week; hence, no "Foggy Bottom" in this issue. We'll try to reach a permanent solution soon that will make everybody happy.]

Linguistics Opens Door To New Possibilities

By MEREDITH GALLUP

• IF YOU'VE NEVER seen a cough or 'snort' spelled out on a printed page exactly as it sounds and don't believe it can be done, the man for you to see is John Gage Allee, Jr., assistant professor of English. This is one of the fascinating possibilities opened up by the study of Dr. Allee's special field, linguistics, or "the science of language."

Mr. Allee, an alumnus, who came to the University this year from the Johns Hopkins University staff, is interested in the subject because of a course he took here in Old English, as well as his long-standing interest in English grammar and languages in general.

To be a little more exact, Mr. Allee would place himself under the heading of English Philologist, indicating his specialty in the literature and language of the Old and Middle English periods. Included in this study is tracing the development of the English language, its syntax and semantics, as well as the aesthetic value of the literature.

Detects Origin By Speech

Although Mr. Allee emphasizes the fact that he is not an expert in phonetics, he admits that on first meeting his wife, he could tell accurately from her speech pattern that she came from the west (not the east) bank of the Connecticut River. A real expert, he maintains, can detect in short order from what county in the U. S. the person with whom he is conversing.

The course in English for foreign students which Mr. Allee teaches here is based on thorough knowledge of the basic grammar and speech patterns of the countries from which his students come, although he himself speaks nothing but English. Indeed, he can sometimes point out speech errors made by a foreigner speaking his native tongue, though he need not understand a word of the language spoken.

Other fields in which "applied linguistics" proves of great value are the rapid teaching of foreign languages, correcting speech defects, teaching the deaf to speak, and operating speech rehabilitation centers.

Entertainment Derived

A lot of non-practical entertainment, it seems, is to be derived from a study of linguistics. Slang expressions and colloquial speech are particularly interesting to one trained in linguistics for the joy of delving into their origins and transpositions from their original usages.

Mr. Allee can discover quite accurately a surprising amount about a person he has never seen, merely from that person's voice and speech patterns. This ability, he says, is a generalization on something which we all do when we identify a person from only hearing him speak.

New Religious Philosophy Club Begins Organization Here

• A GROUP of students, feeling the need for a new religious club with a definitely liberal approach to the religious problems of the world, are forming a religious philosophy club at the University. With the encouragement of appropriate faculty members, these students have begun work on the organizational problems confronting such a venture.

The purpose of this club is to develop interest in the faiths of all men in all ages and to foster a more active inquiry into the living issues in religion.

Tentative plans for the meetings include forums, discussions, book reviews, and lectures by qualified speakers on topics such as comparative religion, sectarian histories, and the philosophy of religion. The agenda will also include social events.

The first meeting will be held tomorrow evening at 8 in the Religious Education Department Office, Building O, 2106 G Street, N. W. Reverend Gilbert Phillips of the Arlington Unitarian Church, will deliver a short address.

Candidates Explain Platforms At ISA Elections Meeting

• CANDIDATES FOR PRESIDENT of the Senior, Junior, Sophomore, and Freshman Classes expressed their platforms before a meeting of the Independent Students Association last Wednesday evening in the conference room of the Student Union Office Building.

Only three ISA members were present. The candidates gave their platforms before them and were informed that there would be a bulletin posted early the next morning telling whom the ISA would support "in the coming election. At 7 p.m. Thursday the bulletin appeared stating that due to the lack of a quorum at the preceding night's meeting the ISA would support no one.

The three candidates for Senior Class President have expressed their platform as follows:

JOAN BENNETT believes that all classes should have representation in student government and advocates a Senior variety show similar to the Freshman Follies.

Wants Reunions

JULIAN STEIN feels that the job of Senior President is to carry out the wishes of the group, who must set a pattern for future classes. He proposes a regular series of class reunions beginning with the class of '50.

HOWARD TICKTIN advocates increased Senior activities including a Senior Follies, separate convocations for the A.A. and A.B. degrees, and coordination between the Senior Class officers and the University Personnel Office.

In the Junior Class Presidential lineup, DICK CHILLEMI proposes a Cherry Tree benefit affair to be sponsored by the Juniors, and heightening of school spirit.

Sees Separate Conventions

CHARLIE SAXE wants separate conventions for the granting of the A.A. and A.B. degrees, and desires to see his class operate as an entity in itself.

WALTER MATHIESON is for more social activities sponsored by the Junior Class.

WALTER COTTRELL, running for Sophomore President, believes in the separate conventions for the A.A. and A.B. degrees.

NANCY DILL thinks that there should be more activities for the Sophomore Class as she believes that they should get together more in order to function more as a unit when they are Seniors.

WARREN HULL would like to see the Freshman Class sponsor a number of social affairs including a "brilliant Freshman Follies." The already enthusiastic Freshmen should develop their school spirit to an even higher degree.

ROBERT FRANCE also spoke for a real freshman spirit and the presentation of well-planned social functions.

Professor Deibert Entertains At Tea For Foreign Group

• PROFESSOR Allen T. Deibert, advisor to students from foreign countries at the University, will entertain at a tea in the International House this afternoon from 4 to 6 p.m. Assisting at the tea table will be Mrs. Cloyd H. Professor Deibert has just returned from a summer holiday in Europe. While there he renewed acquaintanceship with a number of his former students in France, Switzerland, Belgium and The Netherlands.

A Halloween Party was held by the International Students' Society the evening of October 31, at International House. Over forty people attended, including students from Nicaragua, Puerto Rico, Israel, the Philippines, Germany, The Netherlands, Rumania, Latvia, Afghanistan and Finland.

University Too Small, Indian Student Believes

By WALTER WINGO

• ONE STUDENT who does not believe the University is overcrowded but needs to have more students is Farrukh Sayer Shakeri, who comes from India, a country of 400,000,000 people.

"The only thing which puzzles me at G. W. U. is its small number of students," Shakeri says, "A national university like this should have two or three times the 12,000 students that it now has.

"I hope to see the University grow larger in students and facilities," adds 25-year-old Farrukh in his perfect English, "so that soon it will achieve the world fame it deserves."

World Traveler

Among the many foreign students at the University, Shakeri is one of the most colorful. He is the young president of his family's large ancestral trading business in Horrh, an industrial suburb of Calcutta, and as such has traveled around the globe, meeting dignitaries of almost all countries.

On visiting the U. S. the first time in 1946, the young Indian business man was so impressed by the hospitality of the State and Commerce Departments and the feeling of good will that the American people have, that he decided to finish his schooling in this country some day in the future.

He toured the colleges and universities on his way across the United States hoping to find one in the heart of American foreign activities which offered a good international law-curriculum. At the suggestion of American Consul General Charles H. Derry, whose daughter had attended the University, Farrukh chose George Washington.

Sisters Accompany Him

On his second trip to the U. S. this September to begin school here, Shakeri was accompanied by his two sisters, who are 17 and 15 years old. The older sister is attending Vassar, while the other is studying in Troy, New York.

Believing that relations among all peoples should be harmonious, Farrukh, a Moslem, went on a goodwill mission to the troubled central state of Hyderabad, just before leaving for college. Accompanied on the mission by one of Mahatma Gandhi's associates, he met Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru and his sister, Madame Pandit, now ambassador to the U. S.

"After graduating from law school at the University, I may return to India and continue this goodwill work, if my people need me," Shakeri declares, "but just now my prime interest is my studies, which do not permit me to move around socially as much as I would like."

Honorary Hillel Member

Still, Farrukh has made friends with many American and foreign students here, and has renewed his acquaintanceships with many eminent Americans he met on his 1946 visit. He also has become an honorary member of the Hillel Foundation.

"One thing I regret is having spent so many long hours of my life glued to a desk. I wish I had learned some sport, so I could do something more than watch the athletic events. I like football."

Commenting on the Maryland game, Farrukh Shakeri said with a broad smile: "I enjoyed the great color, variety and fanfare which accompanied the game, and I think your cheerleaders are absolutely wonderful. They seem to be the truest manifestation of pep at the game. The University is wealthy, —if not in studies or anything else, —indeed, in its girls."

Bunker Gives DZ Statement To Student Life

• GRACE BUNKER, President of Delta Zeta sorority, presented a statement to the Student Life Committee at its meeting last Thursday, defending her sorority from the decision made by the Panhellenic Council.

The Council had found the sorority guilty of violating rush regulations by holding a summer rush party and had penalized them by forbidding the group to initiate any new members for the entire school year.

Miss Bunker made plain before reading her prepared statement that it was not in the nature of an appeal, but was made to clarify the position of the group and to bring additional facts before the Student Life Committee. According to the rules of Panhel an appeal could have been made, but only within one week after the penalty was announced. The deadline had passed.

Enclosed with the statement for addition to Student Life files were depositions from three of the four girls at the alleged rush party declaring they in no way were rushed to join DZ.

According to Miss Bunker, she was not informed that their case was coming before Panhel until a few minutes before the hearing was held.

Members of the Student Life Committee expressed concern over the apparently unnecessary rate of speed with which the case was dispatched by Panhellenic Council, but felt no action could be taken since the information had come to the committee past the legal deadline for an appeal.

The Delta Zeta statement closed with the following: "This has taken a great toll of time and energy and emotional reserve from our girls. We cannot go further with it. It has already cost us much in school effectiveness, although we have also learned a great deal. These are the facts as we know them."

Alpha Theta Nu Plans Assemblies

• ALPHA THETA NU, University scholarship holders' club, made plans to continue last year's high school assemblies project at their meeting last Wednesday.

The first assembly will be December 8 at which members of Alpha Theta Nu will act as masters of ceremonies and give short speeches on college life.

Also on the agenda last week, was the discussion of a new project to establish some sort of guidance center whereby students can come to find out who their particular adviser is and what fields are open to them after graduation. Tentative plans were made.

An office of historian, which is filled by Joanne Hyde, and a permanent secretaries notebook were established.

VA Reports Fewer Vets

• FALL TERM enrollment of approximately 24,000 veterans in the Washington area colleges and schools has decreased the number of veterans in training here to more than 37,000, about seven per cent below last year's total of 39,484, the Veterans Administration's Washington Regional Office reported recently.

Completing a survey of fall registration operations, Chester F. Naurowicz, manager of the regional office, said that all but a few hundred veteran students will receive their first fall subsistence checks in November.

School Apollo To Be Featured At 'Ball O' Fire'

• "THE BALL OF FIRE," an annual All-University dance sponsored by the Hillel Foundation, is scheduled for November 19, following the Colonial-Hoya football game, from 9 to 12 p.m. in the Hall of Nations at the Washington Hotel.

Larry Laine's orchestra will play at the informal dance, and tickets at $2.40 a couple may be purchased at Hillel House, 2129 F Street, N.W.

Featured at the affair will be the selection of "Apollo of 1949," "the best looking, most virile hunk of humanity at large at the University." Shirley Talbott, "America's loveliest model" and Rose Queen of 1949, will choose the winner from candidates sponsored by campus organizations. In addition Miss Talbott will crown "Apollo" and award him many valuable prizes.

All University groups are invited to submit candidates for the Apollo contest by sending the name and address of the nominee and the name of the sponsoring organization to Buddy Stein, 2129 F Street, N.W.

Among those planning to attend the Ball O' Fire are the Colonial Dame and George, the Colonial mascots, as well as the football team and the coaching staff.

• THE SIGHT OF PEOPLE branching out from Mr. Campbell's music store early each Monday morning is a source of constant speculation among passers-by in the vicinity of 11 and G Streets, N. W. A small percentage sometimes even stops to ask what's going on, probably fearing the worst in the form of a new cigarette shortage or a run on nylon stockings. To dispell their fears, the usual reply is, "We're waiting for tickets to the Budapest String Quartet to go on sale." Occasionally, though, a very puzzled individual may wander away, shaking his head doubtfully after being informed by a weary humorist that this line is waiting to buy the 50-cent harmonicas displayed in the window. As a matter of fact, many of the curious people asking this question about 6:30 in the morning shake their heads in amazement anyway to think of getting up so early just to get tickets to a concert.

TECHNICALLY, THERE EXISTS a supposed pact among veteran line-standers not to get down before six. Since no one we know has ever investigated this, we can't vouch for its truth. By 6:30, the line usually numbers about ten people; at 7:30, Neisners' show windows are entirely obscured by human beings; by eight, people are turning the corner at 12th street; and when 8:30 rolls around—this is the time the tickets actually go on sale—the average line usually terminates midway in the block on 12th between F and G. There have been some lines, though, in the annals of concert history, which have extended southward all the way to F, finally turning the corner there.

Each year the average age of line members seems to decline. Just recently, a grizzled gentleman, who probably traced back his years of Monday morning line standing with the pride a biologist would show in tracing the development of a strain of artificially inseminated goldfish, haughtily wandered down the length of the line, gazed irritably at its human components, and returned to his place muttering, "We're being invaded by a crowd of high school fugitives."

Informality seems to be the keynote of the line formation. Great gaps begin to appear about 7:30, as various groups wander off for a leisurely breakfast, returning in time to regain their places and wait for the store's opening and the distribution of tickets.

BUT RETURNING TO the reason for these seeming aberrations of human behavior, we'd better give a few particulars about the concerts. The Budapest Quartet is just one of the series of chamber music ensembles that perform each concert season in the Coolidge Auditorium at the Library of Congress under the auspices of either the Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge or the Gertrude Clarke Whithall Foundation. Last year, for example, chamber music enthusiasts saw the Juilliard, London, and Busch String Quartets—the latter with Rudolf Serkin—and a program of violin and piano sonatas performed by the exciting combination of Robert Casadesu and Zino Francescatti. This year, besides performances of the Budapest Quartet which began the season, Alexander Schneider, an alumnus of the Budapest in which he formerly played violin, appeared, playing the Bach unaccompanied partitas and sonatas, programs which were a marvellous treat to initiates of solo violin music.

For people who develop frostbite shivering in the cold of mid-winter Monday mornings, WQQW-FM broadcasts all the concerts in their entirety, complete with intermission interviews and descriptive comments.

For those without FM, there will always be Vaughan Monroe.

BUT THE LIBRARY CONCERTS don't offer the only opportunity for one to enjoy chamber music in Washington. For example, the Georgetown Concert Group is inaugurating a series of twelve fine programs in the auditorium of Western High School. Reginald Kell, world-famous clarinetist, the Juilliard String Quartet, the violin-harpichord team of Alexander Schneider and Ralph Kirkpatrick and many others will participate in these concerts, a subscription ticket to which costs a reasonable $7.50. Appropriate information may be procured by contacting Miss Betsy Winter at COlumbia 0712. The opening program is November 17.

The National Symphony is now selling single tickets for all its Wednesday and Sunday concerts. It thus becomes possible to hear Rudolf Firkusny without having to hear Margaret Truman, depending on which exerts the stronger pull on you—music or celebrities. This coming Wednesday evening, Sir Thomas Beecham will lead the orchestra in works of Handel, Mozart, Brahms, Delius, and Berlioz. Sir Thomas' exploits in music, little liver pills, and barbed sarcasm make him one of the noteworthy personalities of the generation.

• I WAS REMINDED by last week's Editor's Note at the bottom of "Kirsten Comments" that yours truly was to have a column ready for this week. Since columns in the Hatchet are reserved for only "non persona non grata," it was a surprise to me.

As you may have already observed, there is still no name for my column. The Editors suggested "Skelly Speaks," "Skelly Snarls," "Skelly Shrieks," and one other name which I can't publish, but I won't listen to them. I say, Let the students speak!

So please send in your suggestions, accompanied by one dollar for handling and mailing. Decisions of Kirsten, Skelly, and the Editors to be final. Skelly reserves the right to spend the dollar.

Did you know that: There is a beautifully designed suggestion box in the lobby of the SUB (Student Union Building), placed there so that students may air their gripes and present their ideas. "Helpful" suggestions already received: "The blueberry pie looked like apple but tasted like custard"; "We need new bus boys—the ones here now are too rude; they keep telling us to please leave during the rush hours."

When the Homecoming Queens were asked to sing the University's Alma Mater on the Bill Herson WRC morning show, "not a whisper was heard, not even a note." Somebody must know those words.

Our Profs: An anonymous postcard arrived at the Hatchet office this week with the simple announcement that Chemistry Professor C. M. Mackall was late for class this week for the first time in a quarter of a century.

Just recently discovered that it was Dean Kayser who gave the Colonials their name.

On Campus: We learn that the new Strong Hall regulations read as follows: "Girls are allowed two guests per semester; that is, one guest two nights or two guests one night." My problem, Mr. Anthony, is . . .

The well-known fact that pretty lassies select their seats in class according to the looks of the he-man next to them is tradition, but I am not informed that the bolder females of today go to the trouble of erasing a professor's seating chart to conquer . . . This must be America.

In Class Today: While the touchy subject of roll-calling is still drifting with the breeze, here's some worthwhile news. One of the professors from the School of Engineering sets his alarm clock for 7:40 p.m. during his 7:10 class. This process serves two purposes: it wakes the class up and it reminds him that it is time to take attendance.

And The Rains Came: Two years ago, when the University played Wayne University in Detroit under the same conditions which prevailed at the Lafayette Game, Frank Close, Colonial end, managed to camouflage himself with enough mud to slip into the opposition's huddles and steal their signals. P. S.: we lost 7-6.

Flash: In the Intramural Swimming Meet last Friday, Tom Dougherty proved that it pays to use your head, by bouncing off the side walls without denting the fixtures.

Quote of the Week: "May I stand at your table?"—Noon hour at the Student Union cafeteria.

Enough is enough, and as they say in Russia, "Hi-Muscow." [Editor's Note: This space will be occupied in alternate issues by Kirsten Comments and Jack Skelly's yet-nameless column.]

World Affairs Center Plans Now Underway

• PLANS ARE underway for the establishment of a World Affairs Center near the University, devoted to material on international relations and suitable for research work.

Students in the school of Government and Foreign Service are expected to find the center especially helpful, according to J. D. O'Neill. Mr. O'Neill also said that anyone willing to assist in setting up the center should contact him by mail at 1731 F Street, N. W. He requests that available hours, major subjects, work experience.

The degree of doctor of philosophy will be conferred on Benjamin Moses Axilrod, who has been a physicist at the National Bureau of Standards since 1935. He has the bachelor of electrical engineering degree from the University of Minnesota and the master of science degree from the same institution. His thesis is on "The Theory of Triple-Dipole Interaction."

Scholarships Now Offered To Interns

• FIFTY SCHOLARSHIPS are offered for the academic year 1949-50 to members of management internship programs operated by Federal departments and agencies in Washington, the University has announced.

Deadline for applications is today. Dr. Karl E. Stromsem, University adviser on Internships, urges all interested seniors to make application at the personnel office.

The purpose of these scholarships to enable the interns to supplement their practical training in the government with appropriate selected after-hours academic courses, and to provide an opportunity for them to earn academic credit hours toward undergraduate or graduate degrees.

Tuition-Free Course Provided

The scholarship privilege provides a tuition-free course of three credit hours for each semester of 1949-50 that an intern is a full-time member of a management internship training program. In addition, the University will make arrangements to give appropriate academic credit for participation in the orientation conferences and other group meetings, conducted regularly in the agencies as part of the internship training. As many as six units of credit may be awarded after examination and successful completion of the internship program.

Must Meet Requirements

To be eligible the intern must meet the University's requirements for admission to courses. He must be a member of a group of Federal Government employees who have been carefully selected for a program of management training which includes: group orientation, followed by conferences scheduled regularly for the duration of the training; planned program of individual training assignments which include rotation and diversified practical work; and counseling and general supervision of the interns by an official designated for such purposes.

Scout Fraternity Plans Chapter

• BOY SCOUTS on campus interested in starting a chapter of Alpha Phi Omega are asked to contact Dick Riecken at DuPont 9645, or to leave their names, addresses, and telephone numbers in the Student Activities Office.

Alpha Phi Omega is a Boy Scout service fraternity, and membership is limited to past scouts with at least a 2.0 average. The fraternity is represented by about 180 chapters in other colleges and universities. Alpha Phi Omega publications are available at the Student Activities Office.

The eighth national organization for women on the University campus, the sorority has invited all social sororities and fraternities and all its Washington alumna to the function.

Holiday Friday

• NO CLASSES will meet this Friday because of convocation, but there will be classes on Saturday, according to Mr. Fred Nease, Registrar of the University. Both the Student Union and the Library will be closed on Friday, but open on Saturday.

SAH Meets

• NEW MEMBERSHIP applications and the new constitution of the University Speech and Hearing Society will be voted on at a meeting Thursday at 2:30 p.m. in Studio A of Lisner Auditorium. The society will also consider membership in Sigma Alpha Eta, the national Speech and Hearing Fraternity.

Bulletin Board

• CHEERLEADING practice for tryouts in the last part of November will begin tomorrow.

All students who are interested should come to Building J at 7:30 p.m. Those who cannot make the first practice should contact Myrt Lanchton at STerling 9559, George Rawnsley at DEcatur 8824, or any of the other cheerleaders.

• JUDGE JAMES E. KIRKLAND, will be the speaker at a dinner to be held by Nu Chapter, Kappa Beta Pi Legal Sorority at the Army-Navy Town Club, 17th and I Streets, N.W., this Saturday.

Judge Kirkland, newly appointed District Court Judge, will be making his first public appearance since being sworn in. He is a University Law School Moot Court Judge and a former law professor.

• ALPHA LAMBDA DELTA, freshman women's scholastic honorary, will initiate two members at 4 p.m. Thursday, in Columbian House. Nancy Saunders and Geraldine Fogel are the neophytes.

Following the initiation, projects and activities for the coming year will be discussed at a business meeting.

Membership in Alpha Lambda Delta is limited to those freshman women who retain a 3.5 average in their first semester's work or in their first and second semesters combined.

• NEW OFFICERS were elected by the German Club last Friday night. They are Jay Wesley Kulp, president; Dorothy Lee, vice-president; Bill Robinson, treasurer; and Leo Harrison, secretary. After the elections, Frank Lambert, past president and now a member of the University faculty, gave a speech on "Goethe as a Scientist." Refreshments and singing followed.

Council NotesHomecoming's Loss May Be Nearly $1,000

• A LOSS OF $500 to $1,000 on the Homecoming Dance was reported to the Student Council last week by Comptroller Bob Pittman. The loss, Pittman said, must come out of the Revolving Fund.

President Crichton apologized to Pete Smith, who was present, for his not being informed in advance of the Hatchet notice of his removal from the Student Union Committee.

Smith was present at the meeting to ask why the Council withdrew the $100 grant to the Radio Workshop. It was said that the Council felt that no action had been taken by the Workshop up to that time although the grant was made in September. Smith indicated that the Workshop was now in operation with a program which will be heard weekly on a 24-station FM network. Money is required for this series, Smith said.

John Donaldson said that the Publicity Fund is depleted and that Smith would have to wait until amounts needed by other Council members for publicity is known. He could then estimate what money would be available for the Radio Workshop.

The Student Council voted unanimously at its previous meeting that a letter be sent to President Marvin saying that the Council favored separate ceremonies for the presentation of A.A. degrees. The latter, written by Len Kirsten, says in part, "While the degree is a mark of academic distinction, it is felt that because there are so many presented at the same time, the presentation loses some of the dignity it deserves." The Council expressed the hope that the University would "take this idea under consideration in planning future convocations."

Next meeting of the Student Council will be tonight at 9 in Room 215, Student Union Office Building. All students are entitled to attend meetings.

• THE FRENCH CLUB invites all interested students to its first dance and party tonight at 8 in Columbian House.

The following officers were elected at the club's first business meeting last week: Jean Louis Sola, president; Esther Halpern, vice-president; Solange Rosenberg, secretary; Peter Martin, publicity director; Paul Sifton, treasurer. Pierre-Andre Fayre was elected social chairman for the semester.

• DR. SARAH SALSAMAN will speak at the Psychology Club meeting in Columbian House Thursday at 8:30 p.m.

Dr. Salsaman, of Berliner House, will address the group on the role of psychologists in the clinic.

• ANYONE interested in joining the G. W. Players and in working on the forthcoming University production "The Yellow Jacket" is invited to attend the Players meeting tonight in Studio A of Lisner Auditorium at 8:30. Election of a number of important officers will be held at that time, and plans for work on the current production and on future ones will be discussed.

• THE FACULTY women's luncheon originally scheduled for November 11 has been postponed to Friday, November 18 at 1:15 at the Alison Tea House.

Mrs. John Collier, formerly active in the Women's Rural Institute in England, will be guest speaker. Members who have not yet received notice of the meeting should call Mrs. Myron Koenig, OWen 2029, concerning reservations.

Fox To Speak At Education Open House

• THE ANNUAL OPEN HOUSE of the University School of Education will be held next Monday, November 14, at 8 p.m. in Lisner Auditorium.

Sponsored by four University groups, the program will include a number of guest educators from the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia. Dr. James H. Fox, Dean of the School of Education, will deliver the principal address, "The Future of the University with Special Reference to the School of Education."

The evening's entertainment includes a period of fellowship and refreshments. More than 700 invitations have been sent to University Alumni of the School of Education. Dr. Burnice H. Jarman, professor of Education, will introduce the guest educators and the welcome is to be given by Edward Heine, chairman of the open house committee and president of the Future Teachers of America chapter of the University, one of the sponsoring groups.

Other sponsoring groups will discuss their activities in the field of education with reference to the University. The speakers and their organizations represented are: Miss June Ayers, president of Phi Lambda Theta; Harold Crankshaw, president of Phi Delta Kappa; Miss Elaine Langerman, representing F. T. A., and Lester Smith, executive secretary, General Alumni Association.

Although many formal invitations have been extended, all University students, their friends and families, are invited.

Cherry Tree Open For Subscriptions

• CHERRY TREE subscriptions are now on sale at the booth in the lobby of the Student Union.

The 1950 yearbook sells for $3 which can be paid in two installments. The booth will remain open until tomorrow night.

A contest is being held until December 15, in which representatives from sororities, fraternities, and independent groups are selling subscriptions to the yearbook. A cup will be awarded the individual who sells the most subscriptions.

Ford's Follies

By JOHN J. FORD

John Ford's Mail

(Written after having read "Mary Haworth's Mail" in The Washington Post.)

YOUNG WIFE OF VETERAN WHO IS ATTENDING COLLEGE WENT INTO MARRIAGE WITHOUT PROPER SPIRIT OF SACRIFICE AND NOW COMPLAINS BECAUSE THINGS DON'T GO JUST AS SHE WOULD LIKE THEM TO.

Dear Mr. Ford: I am twenty years old and married to a veteran who goes to school under the GI-Bill. My husband does not work and I work ten hours a day in a laundry. In addition I have to cook meals and do all the cleaning and housework. My husband won't even help with the dishes and when I ask him to, he throws books at me. My husband takes all my pay each week and only gives me enough money for carfare to work. He is always buying new clothes since he says he has to keep up an appearance in college but I haven't bought a new dress in three years. He never even gives me money to buy lunch with and when I ask him for it, he says I am getting to be a fat slob and should stop eating so much.

Of course I love Philip dearly . . .

He complains about my cooking and the way I keep the house. He says I've lost all my beauty, and he calls me "Bulges." He never stays home at night and all my friends say that he is running around with other girls. Lately he has gotten into the disturbing habit of punching me in the face when I come home each day.

What shall I do? Is my husband losing his love for me?

M. Q.

Dear M.Q.: It is apparent from the childish, whining tone of your letter that you are one of those girls—so, so common in our modern society—who went into marriage without a proper understanding of the sacrifices involved in that great institution, and now, when things don't go exactly as you would like them to, you are ready to throw up your hands and cry quits. You thought it was going to be all give and no take. You thought it was going to be all sunshine and roses, didn't you? You little fool!

We could all learn so much from our grandmothers . . .

You complain first of doing housework and not getting enough clothes. How typical that is of the modern girl who fails to accept her traditional responsibilities. And, lacking the spirit of teamwork so necessary in the modern wife, you complain because you have to work while your husband goes to college. You've forgotten all your husband went through during the war. You didn't talk like this when the boys were over there, did you? Then you rail at your husband for complaining about your cooking when he is merely being honest. You are a horrible cook, you know.

Just why you are hurt by a cute pet name like "Bulges" is, frankly, hard for this counselor to understand. It is obviously a term of endearment. It is unpleasant, I realize, to have your husband punch you in the face each night, but if you thought it out deeply you would see that it is one of the necessities of your marriage. With the great lessening of physical exercise that has come with leaving the service of his country, your husband naturally has a great deal of excess energy to work off. Why not make a game of this? How well your grandmother would have handled the problem.

But no! Rather than think clearly you are ready to dash home to mother—which is adding insult to injury since your parents never have had the proper respect for your husband. And wouldn't it be a good idea if your mother stopped trying to run the marriage?

Lastly, with that utter lack of loyalty so typical of modern wives, you openly accuse your husband of running around with other girls merely because friends say so. But do you have proof? Has your husband ever brought any of these girls home? Of course not.

Of course you must realize that the basic urges of a man are all good and the basic urges of a woman all bad . . .

By all means talk this over with your husband. He is certainly the only one who can give sensible advice. It is clearly evident that he loves you as deeply as he ever did.

Chi Upsilon Wants Femme Geologists

• EPSILON CHAPTER of Chi Upsilon, the National Professional Geological Sorority, is open to women students of the University who have 15 semester hours credit in geology.

Chi Upsilon was organized to encourage scholarship among women majoring in geology, to bring them closer together, and to sponsor field trips, lectures and films of special interest to geology students. Meetings are held the 15th of each month.

For further information concerning activities and requirements for membership, call or write Elizabeth Kehoe, 2929 Connecticut Avenue, N. W., Washington 8, D. C., ADams 2584.

Positions Available For DAV Students

• KINGS CHAPTER No. 4 of the Disabled American Veterans has announced that all Public Law 16 students wishing part time employment now, or full time positions upon graduation, should contact the group's employment officer, at 1701 18th Street, N. W.

The chapter, composed of University students only, also has announced a Civil Service examination scheduled for today for positions of Junior Professional assistants. Preference letters may be obtained from the Veterans Regional Office.

Chess Club Plans Collegiate Games

• THE UNIVERSITY Chess Club organized less than a month ago, already boasts a membership of 36 (including several girls), and indications are that the club will continue expanding as news of its existence becomes more widely known.

A round-robin tournament between members of the club has already been started with the purpose of classifying players according to ability and thereby forming the basis of a chess team which will represent the University in intercollegiate competition. This classification of players will also be useful in arranging games between members within the club.

Taking early leads in the intracollegiate competition are Ted Bullock and Ray Lewis on the Friday and Tuesday tournaments respectively. Close behind the leaders are Dick Tully, Phil Levin and Bob Greenwald.

Rally To Beer To Java Vary As Student Likes

By NANCY SULLIVAN

• QUESTION: WHAT PART OF SCHOOL life do you enjoy most? Julie Clarkson: The Student Union, for meeting all kinds of people. Oh, those crowds!

John Neary and Biff Mauriello: We can't decide between exchange dances and beer parties. Maybe a combination of the two. Of course, we do like to study one night before exams.

Ellen Macewen: The pep rallies! It's wonderful to watch everyone joined together for their University.

Thomas J. Cartin: Getting paid. (seconded by many.)

Sue Farquharson: The musical activities, because music is one of my main interests. But there ought to be more . . . (plug for a music department).

John Daly: I enjoy the gay responses that the pros receive when they say "good morning kiddies" on Monday.

Ann Dunkle: There's nothing like trying to shoot the horseback riders from A. U. during archery.

Keith H. Miller: J'aime d'aller chez moi apres les classes.

Russell Sergeant: Playing pin-ball machines in the Student Union by far the most educational, interesting and inspiring activity in which I indulge.

Delts Entertain At Election Party

• AN ESTIMATED 200 campus leaders and candidates for class offices were entertained Saturday evening by Delta Tau Delta fraternity at the Delt Shelter, 1909 H Street.

One of the highlights of pre-election activity, the "Smoke-filled Room" party was sponsored by the Delta "in an effort to increase interest in the class elections this week," according to George Rawnsley, chairman of the affair. All candidates, their campaign managers and supporters were invited to attend, as well as about 150 leaders in campus activities.

Co-hosts at the party were Walter Cottrell, candidate for sophomore president and Charles Saxe,

'Hayseed Hoedown' At Gym Saturday

• A "HAYSEED HOEDOWN" sponsored by the Psychology organizations and the Art Club, is scheduled for the University Gym this Saturday, from 9 to 12 p.m.

Tickets for the All-University square dance, at 75 cents per person, are on sale in the booth in the Student Union from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and 5 to 6:30 p.m. Tickets will also be on sale at the door.

Music will be supplied by Bobby Daniels and His Novelers. Ralph Case will call the dances.

candidate for junior class president. In addition to Rawnsley, George Dowd, Robert Valiant, Al Cozzi, Frank Bowron, Charles Crichton, Hal Holland, Dean Shuman, and Bill Powell served on the committee which arranged for the party.

Blanks Are Due

• ORGANIZATIONAL blanks for all student groups must be sent to the Student Activities Office immediately, according to Dr. B. H. Jarman, Chairman of the Student Life Committee. Since these forms are past due, Dr. Jarman announced at the last meeting of Student Life that the committee will soon take action to suspend all organizations which do not submit their forms.

• OFFICERS OF THE Women's Progressive Club unveil a plaque in memory of Mrs. Sarah Corenfield at the University School of Medicine Sunday. From left to right are Mrs. Anne Krockmal, vice-president; Mrs. Caroline Kaplau, treasurer; Mrs. Ruth Alpert, president, and Mrs. Frances Whitcup, secretary.

Cancer Clinic Holds Memorial To Honor Mrs. Corenfield

• A MEMORIAL PROGRAM and reception was held at Warwick Memorial Cancer Clinic of the University School of Medicine, 1339 H Street, N.W., Sunday at 3 p.m. when the Women's Progressive Club unveiled a plaque memorializing Mrs. Sarah Corenfield. The club's hospital cost fund is named in honor of Mrs. Corenfield, a former club member who was a victim of cancer.

Present for the ceremony Sunday was George Clott, Mrs. Corenfield's brother, who came from Jersey City, N. J., with Mrs. Clott.

Rabbi Solomon H. Metz officiated and spoke at the ceremonies. Dr.

Calvin T. Klopp, director of the University's cancer activities, also spoke. A reception followed the formal program.

The Women's Progressive Club maintains a continuing $2,000 fund to assist Warwick Clinic patients needing operations for cancer but unable to pay hospital costs. Seven patients have been helped since the fund was started last summer.

Mrs. Ruth Alpert, president of the club, states that donations of goods as well as cash contributions are accepted for the fund. Recently the wife of the first patient helped by the fund contributed $43 to the hospital cost fund.

Elections

Lisner Terrace, or in front of Lisner Auditorium.

Amendment on Ballot

The ballot will contain the new constitutional amendment of the Student Council. The amendment is purely a procedural one, cutting out some of the overlapping jobs between the Activities and Program Directors. Article III, section B-9 is now to read, "The duties of the Program Director shall be to promote, foster, and co-ordinate annual programs."

A vote on the ballot for this revision will clarify the duties of these two council posts.

Candidates Listed

Candidates for junior class president are: Richard Chillemi, Charles Saxe, Walter Mathieson; vice president—Diane Farrell, Peggy Faunce, William Rydholm, Jennings Smith; secretary—Meredith Gallup; treasurer—Anne Sheppard, Oscar Will.

Candidates for sophomore class president are: Walter Catrell, Nancy Dilli; vice president—Patti McNally, Peter Van Allen; secretary—Jeanne Cleary, Virginia Parrot; treasurer—Carolyn Hanby, Louise Willett.

Candidates for freshman class president are: Robert Frantz, Warren Hull; vice president—Robert Buzzel, Joan Evans, Ellen Mac Ewen; secretary—Eugenia Brandenburger, Sheila Campbell, Peggy McGroth; treasurer—Jerome Goldberg, Barbara Worley.

Slide Rule Slants

By ED HAYES

• NOT THAT it makes any difference to me, but my girl friend has informed me that I am not the one who is writing this column. It seems that quite a few people think that the person responsible for this is THE Ed Hayes, who is a senior and a very big BMOC. This is not intended to be offensive to him but the truth is that I am an insignificant freshman in the School of Engineering who would appreciate any information or hot news pertaining to engineering activities at the University or the surrounding area. I can be contacted at LUDlow 3-0912.

BIG DOINGS

The parent society of the American Society of Civil Engineers held its annual fall meeting in Washington from November 2 through November 4. This was the first time in 21 years that the meeting has been held in the nation's capital. The gathering, which convened at the Statler Hotel, was open to student members of the ASCE. The University and Catholic University chapters were hosts to more than 600 student members from all parts of the country.

Five field trips and a banquet were sponsored by the parent organization. The banquet was held at the Department of Interior Tuesday night and many important personages in the field of engineering were present. Among those in attendance were Mr. Thomas, president of the national society; Colonel Byrd, vice-president; Colonel Marr, head of Virginia Military Institute, and Admiral Welling, Chief of the Bureau of Yards and Docks. After the dinner, Admiral Welling delivered a very impressive speech using as his main topic, "Civil engineers need to learn to address the public and put their ideas across on paper along with their specialized training." The Southern Railway and the Richmond, Fredericksburg, and Potomac Railroad were hosts on a tour of the Potomac freight yards which was followed by a luncheon.

NOTEWORTHY ACCOMPLISHMENTS

The staff of the Mecheleclv departed from its usual policy in the recent issue when they published an article on isotopic configuration. This was printed in the Engineering School Magazine because of the absence of a scientific journal which we need very badly. According to the author of the article, Arthur F. Souther, a student at the University, the chart is supposed to make possible, in advance, the determination of the characteristics which any isotope may have whether it has been isolated or not.

The Engineers' Council has announced plans for a joint Christmas tree lighting ceremony with the glee club and the Army Air Force Band. The event is to take place December 19.

Rumor has it that George Tittrington, president of Theta Tau, is to receive two awards this June, one from the University and the other from the little woman.

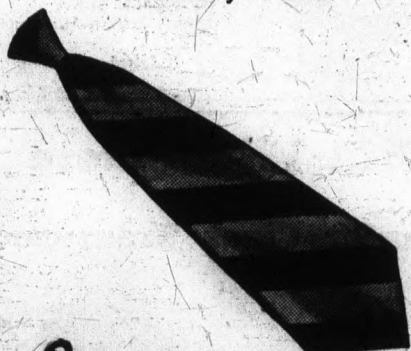

Since the Colonial Cafeteria requested that their advertisement in the first issue of the Mecheleclv be printed upside-down they have received a large boom in business. Beer is now being sold by the pitcher.

Just to prove that everyone isn't as dumb as I, I would like to point out that three of the six students tapped for ODK were engineering scholars.

Blue Devils 'Guest' Of Colonial Eleven; Frosh Seek Revenge Against Terps

Liners Stop Buff Solidly By 40-14

• GEORGE WASHINGTON'S roughest assignment of the season comes up this Saturday when the Colonial eleven will attempt to rebound from a 40-14 defeat at Maryland last week and stop an equally strong Duke football squad at Griffith Stadium. The game will be played at 2:15 Saturday afternoon.

Coach Wallace Wade's Blue Devils will bring to Washington a 5-2 season's record as well as their wounds of last week's loss to Wake Forest by a 22-7 score.

(Ed. Note—The Hatchet Sports Editor deals with the composition of the Duke lineup in his column by Warren Gould, on page 15 of this issue.)

For two periods, against the Terrapins last Saturday the Colonials held their own, but in the second and last quarters, the roof caved in on Coach Bo Rowland's charges who went down to their first defeat in almost a month and their fourth loss of the season. Stan Lavine, Maryland quarterback, ran Jim Tatum's T machine smoothly enough to score four touchdowns against George Washington in the second period. Capitalizing on the height of his receivers and the weakness of his opponents' pass defense, Lavine hit end Stan Karnash for two touchdowns, ran over for another, while Mo Modzelewski accounted for the other score.

Lavine passed to Pete Augsburg for a tally in the fourth period, shortly before Bob Shemonski, with one key block after the other covering him, dashed 76 yards for a touchdown punt return.

With the exception of the disastrous second frame, George Washington held the Terrapins to an even ball game. Both teams often lost possession of the ball on fumbles and interceptions in the first period, but Andy Davis passed for two first downs and ran for a third. In the third period, the Colonials, with Jack Tivnan in the "Davis seat," marched for 80 yards and a touchdown. Tivnan passed and ran the ball himself most of the time. Davis coming in to pass to Bill Szanyi on fourth down for the score. Frank Cavallo kicked the extra point.

Tivnan again paced the attack in the final period. The sophomore back culminated a 55 yard drive by passing to Szanyi who took the high pass in the center of the end zone, Cavallo making it 14 for George Washington with a perfect placement.

Don Martin Starts University Boxing

• ARRANGEMENTS FOR a University Boxing Club are being worked out this week by Don Martin, a student at the University. While this organization at the present would have to operate without the assistance of the George Washington athletic department, Martin feels that there is enough interest within the University to warrant the founding of this club.

Anyone interested in any phase of this program is urged to contact Don Martin at ME 0025 or through the Intramural Sports Office.

Kappa Alpha Walks Off With Win In Second Annual Swimming Meet

Sailors Place At Regatta

• BITTER RIVALRY for top places marked the Schell Trophy Regatta at M.I.T. Saturday and Sunday. The University sailing team fought valiantly, competing with the leading New England teams in light winds and low temperatures. The lead changed frequently. Often the last boat at the start was one of the leading boats at the end of the race.

The final results were Yale first with 212, Brown second with 189, King's Point third with 188, Coast Guard Academy fourth with 184, Harvard 181, M.I.T. 179, G.W. 177, Georgetown 165, followed by North Eastern, Middlebury, McGill and Bowdoin.

Bob Coulson of Yale was high point skipper of the regatta. With the exception of Yale's lead of 23 points, the first seven scores were very close, which was indicative of the excellence of the competing teams.

Next weekend the University team will compete with Princeton, Cornell, Hobart, Miami, Georgetown, Maryland and two New England schools in the "Die Hard" Regatta held at Buzzard's Point. Terrific competition is expected to be the keynote of this annual regatta.

Plans for the famed Frostbite Regatta, to be held December 3rd and 4th, are already well under way.

Intramural regattas, an important part of the program of training future intercollegiate skippers, will be held every Thursday at 1 p.m. at Buzzard's Point Boat Yard, 1st and V Streets, N. W. Vice Commodore Steve Falk will be on hand to instruct in elements of sailing and beginning tactics for racing. Ground (See SAILORS, Page 15)

• TAKING HONORS last Friday night at the all-University swimming meet, held at the Y.M.C.A. pool, was Kappa Alpha, followed by Sigma Chi and Sigma Nu in that order.

Jim Campbell and John Hardy highlighted the individual performances, each capping dual victories. Campbell splashed home first in the 100 yard breast stroke and the 100 yard back stroke.

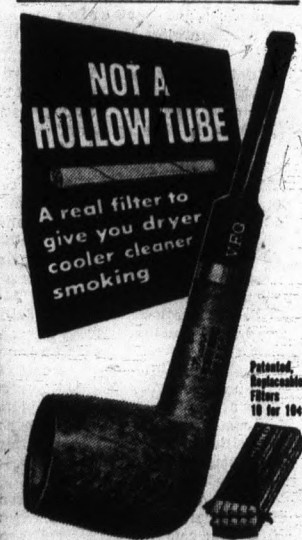

Meeting Tonight

• Swimming Coach Elmer Hipsley requests that all persons interested in the Varsity Swimming Team report to the Conference Room of the Student Union Annex this evening at 7:30 p.m. for a brief organization and orientation meeting. Practice will begin the latter part of this week at the Y.M.C.A.

Hardy gained his victory in the 100 yard and 200 yard freestyle to duplicate his last year's feat. Jim is being counted on to help the varsity mermen considerably this year.

There were other fine performances, and those men have been invited to the tryouts that will start later in the month.

Today there will be a meeting of all men interested in swimming regardless if they swam last Friday or not. Freshmen especially are invited as many of the varsity are leaving next year. There are many openings on the varsity now and it is worth trying out.

Frosh Power Gains Victory At Ft. Myer

• IN ORDER TO EXTEND their winning streak, Maryland will have to stop the hard charging, Buff and Blue frosh this Friday, November 11 when the Frosh journey to Byrd Stadium, Maryland, for what promises to be a thriller.

Maryland's freshman squad, reputedly one of the best in the East, will be pointing for their fifth straight win of the season. George Washington is also undefeated and will be out to gain revenge for their varsity mates who lost to the Terp varsity last Saturday 40-14.

George Washington's alert freshman romped to a 32-6 victory over Fort Myer Friday for their second straight win of the season.

Riflers Shape In Workouts

• TRIGGER FINGERS are itching and sights are being drawn with more care as George Washington's perennially ranking rifle team heads into what it hopes will be another highly successful year.

As head coach Frank Parsons is in Argentina with the US team competing in this year's International Rifle Matches the sharpshooters have been working under the tutelage of asst. coach Jack MacMullian.

Returning from last year's squad which placed 12th in the Nationals are William Howelly, William Koolman, Gene Riggs, Woodward Sicks, LaVerne Xarnor, Dick Ballinger and Wayne Bildahl.

The '49 campaign will open in December with either Catholic U or Georgetown as the Colonial opponents.

Frat Standing Scrambled With League A In Doubt; Ramblers Almost Cinched

AS THE INTERFRATERNITY football leagues draw rapidly to a close, undefeated and unscored-on Theta Delta Chi, by virtue of their 19-0 win over Tau Kappa Epsilon, has established a tighter grip on the League B lead. However, Sigma Alpha Epsilon's lead in League A has been narrowed as a result of their scoreless tie with Kappa Sigma and Pi Kappa Alpha's victory over Sigma Chi. In the only other game played this week, Phi Alpha won a close decision over an injury-riddled Kappa Alpha team, three first downs to none. Phi Sigma Kappa was awarded a forfeit over Tau Epsilon Phi and the game between Sigma Nu and Delta Tau Delta was postponed by mutual consent.

Theta Delt 19, TKE 0

By scoring in all but the second quarter, Theta Delta Chi rolled over TKE 19-0. Early in the first quarter Guido Cavallo tossed a fifteen yard pass to Bob Woods in the end zone to climax a seventy yard drive. The TKE defense stiffened at this point and the half ended without any further scoring. In the third quarter, Joe Famulette and Guido Cavallo brought the ball to the twenty-five yard line where Chet Pietras dropped back and threw a long pass to Matt Kulish for the second score. The final touchdown came in the waning minutes of the game as Joe Famulette caught a thirty yard pass from Guido Cavallo. At this point TKE got their only offensive success of the game picking up a first down just before time ran out. The great defensive of the winners was led by Hank Lawlor and Clem Billisk.

Kap Sig 0, SAE 0

In the closest game of the day Kappa Sigma fought SAE to a draw. Neither team was able to generate any offense in the 1st half due chiefly to the great defensive play of both lines. The SAE defense was spearheaded by George Kriner, George Kunz, and Lou Alexiou, while Joe Jaskiewicz, Bud Pugh and Ray Ferris were outstanding for Kappa Sigma.

Midway in the third quarter SAE offense came to life as Bill Giglio faded back and then tossed, a short screen pass to Ralph Embler that was good for a first down. This gave SAE a lead that lasted until Kappa Sigma received a first down as the result of an illegal use of the hands penalty. Both teams gambled on long passes in a vain attempt to break the deadlock but as the final gun sounded the score still stood one first down apiece.

Pika 0, Sigs 0

On the last play of the game "Biff" Mauriello completed a long pass to big John Neary to give PIKA a hard fought win over Sigma Chi two first downs to one. Bill Shirey got Sigma Chi off to a fast start by completing a long pass to Tom Israel for their only first down of the game. PIKA came roaring back in the second quarter with Mauriello passing to Phil McNiff on a play that was good for twenty-five yards. The tie stood until the last play of the game as the big PIKA line completely bottled up Shirey and the alert defense of Sigma Chi knocked down Mauriello passes.

Phi Alpha 0, KA 0

Phi Alpha wore down a battered KA team to win three first downs to none. Neither team was able to move in the first half. However, in the third quarter Phi Alpha's Charlie Goldberg flashed off tackle for fifteen yards to pick up the initial first down of the game. KA held at this point but in the final period Stan Keller heaved a long pass to Arnie Levinson and then Charlie Goldberg followed the play with a 30 yard pass to Bob Goldstein for the final margin victory.

Ramblers Lead In Standings

INDEPENDENT LEAGUE football drew towards a close Sunday as the Ramblers romped to a 33-0 win over Hillel to continue their undefeated, unscored upon campaign and retain undisputed first place in the standings.

With one game, between the Ramblers and Pharmacy, to be played next Sunday, the standings are:

	W	L	Pct.
Ramblers	2	0	1.000
Bradley	2	1	.666
Pharmacy	1	1	.500
Hillel	0	2	.000

Tony Cavallo passed to Don Menefee, Tom Foley and George Smith for touchdowns and ran another over from the 5 to become the standout of the Rambler-Hillel game. Hillel was so bottled up by the Rambler defense that they were unable to make as much as one first down.

Meanwhile Bradley Hall moved into second place when John Curley followed the blocking of Dean Runge in the second period to make the first down that meant the game in a scoreless, hard fought game with Pharmacy.

The game was called off and awarded to Bradley when, after one play in the second half, Pharmacy's Ed Breza was rushed to Emergency Hospital with an injured left hand.

Washington took to the air on what turned out to be a sensational pass play. Baumgartner, fading back from the 46-yard line uncorked a 45-yard pass intended for Mike Sileo. Dick Rubia, Fort Myer's defensive Halfback covering Sileo, partially deflected the ball, and Sileo lunged at the ball and managed to pluck it out of the air on the Soldiers' 11 where he was immediately tackled. Waldron then powered the ball to the 5 and Baumgartner took it over for the tally. This time Burriera's placement was good and the Colonials took the lead again.

The defensive unit kept the soldiers from seriously threatening and the half ended with the Colonials leading 13 to 6.

As the second half got underway, G. W. lost no time moving the ball. Aided by a short opening kickoff to tackle Tom Flyzik, Waldron took the ball on the next play for 35 yards on a well executed reverse. Waldron weaved and spinned behind excellent downfield blocking before being stopped on the Fort Myer 20. After negligible gain Baumgartner tried a fourth down pass and he was smothered. A penalty at this point gave G. W. new life and Baumgartner unleashed a

Another 'Bo,' Jim Lorenz, Rates Praise

By SAM SCHREIBER
GEORGE WASHINGTON'S football team seems to have an affinity to people named "Bo." Bo Rowland, Bo Sherman and staff direct all the work on the gridiron but off the field it's Bo (Jim or Jocko) Lorenz who does the directing. Jim is the team's handy man.

Although born and raised in Chicago, Illinois, Jim seems to have forsaken his old Chi for the wide open spaces of Oklahoma. This is probably due to the influence of Jim's roommate, Charley Jones.

Charley extended an invitation to Jim to spend the past summer on his farm near Westville, Oklahoma. Needless to say Jocko accepted and spent the summer jockeying tractors and tossing around 100 lb. sacks of feed. By August Jim had acquired a sharp repertoire of stories, witty dialogue, and songs with all the earmarks of his Oklahoma vacation. Late in August both Jocko and

Charley left their farm chores and returned to Washington to prepare for the opening of football practice. With Jim rested the responsibility of getting equipment ready for the opening practice sessions. When practice finally got underway Jim was kept busy maintaining a steady supply of new equipment and driving the boys to and from Frog Island each practice session.

The job of maintenance is no easy one. Both in practice and at the game Jim is confronted with many problems, and queries which usually express themselves in the following manner:

"Got any new cleats, Bo?"
"Hey, Jim, where's my helmet?"
"I need a new 'T' shirt."
"Jocko, is Mike upstairs?"
"Gimme a shogelace, Jim."
"Towel, Jim."

You can always get a sharp retort from Bo. Everyone expects one and they're sometime amazed and even disappointed not to catch some remark in response to their questions. Some of the boys occasionally try to bait Jim, for his responses are a relief to the daily routine of practice.

Just last week 5'6" freshman scat-back, Beno Burriera, approached Bo during one of the practice sessions at the "island" and asked him for some tape. Bo looked at Beno inquisitively and muttered, "Hey Beno step up out of your cleat hole and speak up."

There's one time, however, when Bo is usually serious. That's when game time comes around. Even then Jocko comes through to ease prevailing tenseness. Take the recent Lafayette aquacade.

Intramural Spotlight

By BUDDY STEIN

In the wake and wash of things: THE SWIMMING MEET THIS PAST Friday night was the most successful one ever sponsored by the Intramural Department. . . . Not only were there more contestants, more events, and less confusion, but the time of the meet was much less than in previous years. . . . Much of the credit for the efficient running of the meet should go to John Delabar and his staff of officials who kept things running very smoothly. . . . The two outstanding individuals in the competition were Jim Campbell, Sigma Chi, who annexed the 100-yard backstroke and 100-yard breaststroke and swam the middle leg on the winning 150-yard medley relay team, and Jim Hardy who copped the 100- and 200-yard freestyle events. . . . Several times were excellent and the statisticians are delving into the files to see if any marks were broken. . . . Swimming Coach Elmer Hipsley was an interested observer at the meet. . . . This marks the second consecutive year that Kappa Alpha has walked off with both All-University and Fraternity titles.

Down the fairway:

With the Intramural Golf qualifying round slated to end at noon today, Bob Brown and Jack Haight are leading the way with twin 77's. . . . Close behind are Jim Reese who posted a 79, Paul Foeller at 80, Earl Kusumoto with 82, Charley

In the third quarter, with the score tied 7-7 and everyone wondering just what was going to happen, Jocko came through. Standing ankle deep in mud near the 50 yard line mark and engrossed in watching a Lafayette punt return, Jocko failed to notice "Moose" Kennelly coming up hurriedly along the sidelines for the tackle. Kennelly sent the ball carrier sprawling in Jocko's direction amid a torrent of water. Lorenz in attempting to wade both the ball carrier and the water fell. When Jocko managed to get up he did so in the best of Jolson tradition with his blackened hands up-right and thoroughly drenched from head to toe. Somebody yelled "Mammy!" His condition naturally worked quite a few huzzas, and for once Jim was without a response.

So it goes, day after day, game after game. With the backfield and linemen getting the credit they so rightly deserve, it is altogether fitting that we also take off our hats to Jim-Bo-Jocko Lorenz.

Kushman and J. N. Hightower at 83, and Jud Hulsey and Glenn Dietz with 84's. . . . The low eight men will qualify for the match final round, slated to get under way this weekend. . . . Kappa Sigma and Sigma Nu have been established as co-favorites in the Fraternity linka play after early rounds. . . . Kappa Sig is leading the way in League A with a pair of victories while Sigma Nu seems the class in League B. . . . The round robin portion of the tourney will be completed this week and the finale scheduled for next week.

On clay courts:

The largest Intramural Tennis tournament in University history is now in full swing with some 80 men partaking in the competition. . . . All brackets will advance to the second rounds this week with individuals striving for the final round. . . . In the Fraternity tennis competition, Sigma Nu, Phi Alpha and Kappa Sigma have been the pace-setters and from early results the championship should rest with one of these squads.

Hooks and dribbles:

Two Independent Basketball Leagues are due to get under way next week and two more the following week. . . . League A, starting Monday, November 14, is composed of Eastern Bombers, perennial powerhouse, Vikings, Bradley Brewers, and Playboys, while League B, beginning November 15, has Vets Club, See-Sees, Steam-rollers, and Pharmacy, one of last year's most powerful quints. . . . Fraternity competition will start December 4, with a unique type of tournament. . . . Each team will play two games in a type of qualifying play to determine league assignments. . . . With this type of an arrangement the leagues will be more equitable and the stronger teams will be playing each other, the weaker teams competing against each other, and the middle teams going against each other and in this way the true aims and objectives of Intramural competition can be achieved and a greater interest and desire to partake in the program will be fostered and incultated.

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

FOR A WHILE, Sheedy's life story was a pretty sad tale. People rode him about his wild, unruly hair. And it wasn't until his favorite filly gave him the gait that he decided to do something about it. He trotted down to the corner drug store and bought a bottle of Wildroot Cream-Oil hair tonic. You should see him now! Non-alcoholic Wildroot containing Lanolin keeps his hair neat and well-groomed all day long. No more annoying dryness, no more loose, ugly dandruff.

Take a tip from Sheedy. If your sugar barks when you ask for a date, you need Wildroot Cream-Oil right away. Get it in bottles or tubes at your local drug or toilet goods counter. And ask your barber for professional applications. You'll be a winner every time!

MEN'S AND WOMEN'S - RIDING - SPORTING - LUGGAGE, TRUNKS AND BRIE CASES
SPORTSWEAR TOGS GOODS

By Warren Gould W. Wade's Pack Of Devils Target For 'Righteous' Buff

"In the history of football we have had all kinds of men who have become stars: big men, small men, fast men, and slow men, but we have never seen one achieve gridiron greatness who did not possess a burning desire to win."

BRETHREN, THIS WILL BE our text for today's sermon. This quotation from Mr. Leahy's fine book is just an example of the equipment that the righteous, God fearing forces of justice and George Washington football have at their disposal in their mission of sending back to the steaming cauldrons of Durham, N. C., the latest delegation of Satans, the Blue Devils of Duke.

A pre-season picture of the Wade forces showed that W. W. would be working his attack out of both the single and the T formation, in a fashion similar to the George Washington frosh of this year. His players have been playing hardly like a frosh team, however, losing only to Navy and Wake Forest this far, while piling up five wins. Right now, the Iron Dukes are riding near the top of the Southern Conference standings behind Maryland and North Carolina.

And why? The passing arms of Bill Cox and Glenn Wild seem to be the cause. Wade was hoping for a strong ground attack built around his large line and wingback Jack Freidlund, but has had to call upon his passers for the most part of the season. Cox was responsible for the Duke upset over Georgia Tech, and Wild passed for the Blue Devils' only touchdown against Wake Forest last week. Up front, the Iron Dukes are heavy and experienced. Lou Allen at tackle is the most prominent of the linemen, being groomed by the Duke sports publicity office at least for All-American. The man who replaces Al Derogatis at the other tackle post is Lloyd Eisenberg. The one consolation about the Duke line is that the Colonials will find no Fred Davis or Elmer Wingate (Maryland's flankers) in the Blue Devil ranks.

Both Duke and George Washington will carry a lot of memories into Saturday's battle. Wallace Wade's boys are still getting over last week's upset at Durham, where the Deacons of Wake Forest knocked them from the Southern Conference lead 27-7. Duke will be anything but "down" for the Buff game. Way back in their minds, also, is the memory of last year's debacle when George Washington fell before them 62-0.

The Buff and Blue remember that day in Durham too well. Add to this comment the fact that the Colonials looked bad in losing to Maryland, and the fact that the Buff will be physically ready, and you have reason enough why Bo Rowland's squad does not intend to be in on another 62-0 afternoon. All hands will admit that Colonial pass defense fell apart in that second period against Maryland. Even a 4-4-3 defense setup couldn't stop Stan Lavine and his giant receivers. These "sins" discounted, the Colonials didn't do so badly. I can't remember seeing so called All-Americans Ray Krouse or Bob Ward causing Harvey Shipman, Clarence Drayer, or Howie Delderich too much trouble—why can't Mr. Lou Allen find the same fate awaiting him at Griffith Stadium? It's up to the defensive team of Shiver, Samuelson, Drayer, Kojoyian, Delderich, Savage, Yednock, Clento, Kennelly, Grinnell, and Kline to continue their outstanding work in stopping any ground attack. I imagine Coach Rowland has expressed his views on their pass defense.

Another fact that Duke may be remembering after the ball game is that any time George Washington has the ball in its possession, it can and does go for yardage. We have witnessed the work of Andy Davis and Al DuGoff in every game, and the Buff have yet to be held scoreless. Added to this duo of threats last week was sophomore Jack Tivnan. Tiv, "the Wayfarer, from Wayland, Mass.," has been the most active of the offensive sophomore threats, and last week cut loose. In drives of 80 and 55 yards, Tivnan passed and ran for most of the mileage. So we're 21 point underdogs—we've still got 37 ball players with Mr. Leahy's "burning desire."

Will somebody please nudge Brother Klinker there. I think the sermon has made him a little drowsy.

*Frank Leahy, Notre Dame Football (Prentice Hall).

With The Women

By MARY STRAIN and ANN NOLTE

UNDER THE PLANS being laid for the coming year by the Women's Recreation Association, there will be no lack of athletics or recreation for the sports minded coed. WRA is a very active organization on campus and sponsors all of the tournament and sports days. November 13 is the date set for their first dance and sometime in December an Award tea will be held for all those who have earned cups or letters. Officers of WRA are: Dorothy Thompson, president; Louise Ordineal, vice-president; Dora DePaoli, secretary, and Diane Farrell, treasurer.

HOCKEY CLUB NEWS

The Hockey Club's two teams, the Buff and the Blue, have each played a game in the past two weeks. The Blues managed to play one-half with American University until the rain forced them to postpone the contest. A minor detail which no loyal GW fan would be interested in: AU was leading 1-0.

The Buff team played an excellent defensive game against Georgetown Visitation last Thursday. Although Visitation camped in front of GW's goal throughout most of the game, they managed to break through for only one point. Both teams are shaping up nicely and hope to win their next games with Trinity College.

GW BEATS MARYLAND 2-1

The Tennis Club came through with a victory over Maryland University last Wednesday. Beverly

Kolker defeated Becky Kerkins of MU 6-1 and 6-3. In the doubles match Jane Pyle and Pat Lephrew beat MU 6-3 and 6-2. Eileen McNally of G.W. was defeated by Glenore Hall of MU 6-3 and 6-2.

Despite the chilly weather, quite a few girls turned out for the Women's Tennis Tournament this past Sunday. Jane Pyle defeated Beverly Kolkers and a consolation tournament was held for the losers. Eileen McNally won this, defeating Shirley Stillwell.

BASKETBALL PRACTICE

Girls who are interested in getting in a little basketball practice before the season starts may attend practice which will start November 9. They will be held every Wednesday from 12 to 1 p.m. in the gym.

Meet Your Faculty

Replacing the former Miss Catherine Prentice in the physical education department this year is Miss Smith, a former graduate of the University. The vacancy in the faculty occurred this summer when Miss Prentice married.

Miss Smith is from Kalamazoo, Michigan, and in the fall of '45 she entered GW. While enrolled in the University she was active in all sports, a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma, Captain of the Cheerleaders and in her senior year was chosen for Who's who in American Colleges and Universities (See WOMEN, Page 16)

Mural Cagers Get Started

INDEPENDENT Basketball as announced by Intramural Director Joe Krupa opens Monday night, November 14.

According to Mr. Krupa "This looks like a big year in basketball and we cannot handle any more teams unless they register immediately." Fraternity basketball will begin after the touch football season is completed.

The Independent schedule for November 14 and 15 is as follows:

November 15, League A
7 p.m.—Playboys vs. Bradley
8 p.m.—Bombers vs. Vikings.
November 15, League B
7 p.m.—Vets vs. Rollers.
8 p.m.—Pharmacy vs. See-Sees.

Last year's Independent champs, Arrow Linen, went on to win the All-University title.

Dixie Conference Lead Shared By Terps, NC

NORTH CAROLINA squeezed a 20-14 victory out of William and Mary last week-end to tie with Maryland for first place honors in the Southern Conference.

The Tarheels moved-out in front early in the first period to lead William and Mary 14-0 only to have the hard fighting Indians snap back in the second quarter with two tallies to tie the game 14-14. North Carolina broke the deadlock in the last quarter moving the ball from their own 40 to the Indian goal line to score.

Virginia Military Institute moved up the ladder last week when they rolled over Davidson 47 to 6. The generals scored in every quarter to put the finishing touches on homecoming. Winless Virginia Polytech fought their way to a 6-6 tie against a favored Washington and Lee eleven.

Duke fell from the top of the Southern Conference ratings last weekend with a rejuvenated Wake Forest team overpowered them to the tune of 27-7. The Blue Devils were a one touchdown choice over the Deacons, who had lost four games.

Wake Forest clicked on the offense and defense with halfback Bill Gregus, a line splitting plunger, furnishing the spark to the Deacon backfield, as they struck for two swift touchdowns in the second period and two more in the fourth.

The Blue Devil's only score came twenty seconds before the end of the half.

pass to Burriera who took it over for the third Colonial touchdown. Early in the fourth quarter a Soldier punt carried to the Buff 2-yard line Sileo in a fine display of speed and drive ran the ball to his 20. The run was offset by a 15-yard clipping penalty, but Burriera again displayed his wares, bringing the ball back up to the 20. Waldron on a fine run powered his way twenty-five yards to the 45 behind fine blocking. Again with the blockers out in front, Baumgartner made his way from the forty-five for a T. D.

In the waning minutes of the ball game O. W. received its final scoring opportunity when Sileo intercepted quarterback Jack McVickers jump pass intended for half-back Dick Kerris. On the next play Baumgartner again loosed a touchdown pass, this time to end, Jim England who sprinted the final 15 yards unmolested. Burriera made the conversion.

• ONE OF THE MANY George Washington frosh touchdowns is being scored above as Jack Baumgartner bulls his way over the Fort Myer goal line. The young Colonials were victorious by 52-6.

training in elements of sailing and tactics will be arranged to supplement actual training in the boats. During the series hot competition is expected in the intermediate class, spurred by such old-timers as Mary Davis and Carl Evans, and newcomers such as Mary Catherine Woolwine, Joan King and Bob Adams. Scoring will be on the basis of past experience and awards will be made in both beginning and intermediate classes.

Trophies will be awarded periodically on the basis of these regular Thursday regattas and the regattas held on weekends when the team is out of town. Many novices and non-intercollegiate skippers turned out Sunday despite the cold weather for the first weekend intramural regatta.
